ORDER

HAWAIIAN ELECTRIC COMPANY, INC. ("HECO") is currently negotiating a standard interconnection agreement with Hale Pauahi, in accordance with HELCO's tariff Rule 14(H). On March 31, 2004, HECO, Hale Pauahi, and the Division of Consumer Advocacy (collectively, the "parties") jointly executed and submitted a stipulated procedural order ("stipulation").

The stipulation memorializes the parties' numerous agreements that effectively extend, until June 30, 2004, the deadline for Hale Pauahi to execute a standard interconnection agreement with HECO.<sup>1</sup> In seeking this latest extension, the parties explain that:

1. Hess Microgen LLC, Hale Pauahi's contractor, is currently in the process of installing new relay equipment for Hale Pauahi's 140 kilowatt cogeneration unit.<sup>2</sup>

2. After the relay equipment is installed and the electrical drawings are updated, HECO can complete the interconnection technical review process.

3. HECO and Hale Pauahi seek an extension of time, until June 30, 2004, "in order to provide time for the electrical drawings to be updated and the interconnection technical review process to be completed."

THE COMMISSION ORDERS that the parties' stipulation, filed on March 31, 2004, to extend until June 30, 2004, the deadline for Hale Pauahi to execute a standard interconnection agreement with HECO, is approved.

DONE at Honolulu, Hawaii this 7th day of April, 2004.
