The commission will allow Young Brothers' tariff changes to take effect, effective from July 1, 2004 to June 30, 2005. By April 15, 2005, Young Brothers shall file a report with the commission, providing in detail the following information and data with respect to the period from July 1, 2004 to March 31, 2005:

1. The number of customers that switch to using their own platforms utilizing the non-standard size container rate, and a comparison of the rate each shipper, using its own platform, is charged and the revenues received by Young Brothers, versus the rate that shipper, using its own platform, would have been charged and the revenues Young Brothers would have received under the former tariff.
2. For the application of the long length penalty to the shipment of cargo utilizing shipper-owned equipment (all types), the identity of each shipper assessed the penalty, a description of the type of cargo shipped, and a comparison of the rate each shipper is charged and the revenues received by Young Brothers, versus the rate that shipper would have been charged and the revenues Young Brothers would have received under the former tariff.

The commission, following its review of this information and data, will determine whether to continue, modify, or terminate the tariff changes approved herein.
