FILING A COMPLAINT AT THE OFFICE OF CONSUMER PROTECTION

The Office of Consumer Protection (OCP) investigates possible unfair or deceptive acts or practices in trade or commerce. There are many ways that we learn of these problems, but our most important source of information is consumer complaints. Therefore, let us begin by saying: "Thank you for helping us spot the problems." That is what you are doing when you fill out the enclosed "Complaint" form.

This memo explains what we will do when you return the enclosed form. Please read this information carefully, so that you will understand what we will and (just as important) will not be doing with your complaint.

1. WE DO NOT REPRESENT YOU. Please understand that by accepting your complaint we have not agreed to represent you in any capacity. Any action we take is on behalf of consumers in general. We don't have the resources to investigate every case and our enforcement is limited to cases that involve significant harm to a substantial number of consumers.

2. HOW WE USE YOUR COMPLAINTS. We collect and maintain consumer complaints in a data base. This allows us to look for patterns within an industry or in a particular business. While many complaints will be investigated, some will remain in the data base because they represent an isolated incident. That doesn't mean the business was right or wrong.

3. OUR INVESTIGATION MAY HELP RESOLVE YOUR PROBLEM. Our investigations are not designed to resolve individual disagreements. We investigate to determine whether or not we can prove that a business violated the law. However, an investigation often causes the business to reconsider its position in the individual case.

4. HOW YOU CAN HELP US EVALUATE YOUR COMPLAINT. In order to minimize delays in handling your complaint, and to help us accurately evaluate your claim, it is important that copies of all relevant documents are attached to your complaint form. PLEASE DON'T SEND US YOUR ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS.

Depending on the nature of your complaint, you may want to include copies of cash register receipts, store credits, cancelled checks (front and back), correspondence, invoices, contracts, advertisements, charge card slips, bank statements or any other document that helps explain your situation. Please note: If you include an email contact, we will primarily communicate with you by email. You may wish to check your filter settings so that our emails to you make it through.

5. IF WE FIND A VIOLATION, OUR ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW MAY RESULT IN RESTITUTION TO YOU. When an investigation establishes a basis for legal action against a business, we generally prove our case by proving specific acts. Thus, we may need to prove you were a victim of an unfair or deceptive act. If so, we almost always make restitution a part of our demand. We like to recover money for injured consumers.

6. WHAT WE MAY ASK YOU TO DO. In order to take legal action against the business, we will need your full cooperation. Although the great majority of cases are settled without a trial, you may be asked to be a witness. If you are unable, or unwilling, to testify about your case, please let us know on the complaint form.

7. HOW YOU CAN HELP YOURSELF RIGHT NOW. If your claim involves a dispute of charges placed on your credit card or billing statement or if a merchant has promised to reverse or credit your charge card but has failed to do so, you must act quickly to preserve your right to challenge a charge. Under the Federal Fair Credit Billing Act, your credit card company must receive a written dispute notice from you within 60 days after the first bill containing the disputed charge was mailed to you. We cannot dispute this charge for you. Look at the back of your credit card statement for specific information on the procedure for filing your disputes. You must file your dispute with your credit card company; a complaint to the merchant or company that made the charge is not sufficient. Even if you file a credit card dispute, you can still file a claim with our office.
