AFFINITY FRAUD

THE APPROACH OF AFFINITY FRAUD

- It is human nature to trust people who are like you.
- Con artists are increasingly targeting religious, ethnic, cultural, military and professional groups to gain trust and then steal the savings of members of the group.
- Con artists prey on their group ties or recruit a respected member of a community or religious congregation to promote their schemes by convincing them that a fraudulent investment is legitimate.
- The con artists use their relationships to get their “friends” to buy into fake investments, often Ponzi schemes.
- A Ponzi scheme is where claims of underlying investments are bogus; very few, if any, actual physical assets or financial investments exist.

THE RESULT OF AFFINITY FRAUD

- In many cases, the recruiting member or even the leader of the group becomes a victim of what turns out to be a Ponzi scheme or some other fraud.

WAYS TO AVOID AFFINITY FRAUD

- Never make an investment solely based on the reputation or “friendship” of a member of a group to which you belong.
- Beware of investment opportunities that sound too good to be true.
- Do not let a “friendship” stop you from getting the offer in writing and asking hard questions.
- Be suspicious if you are told NOT to share details of the investment with people outside of the group or to keep the investment opportunity confidential.
- Understand exactly how the investment works.
- Don’t be pressured or rushed into buying.
- Use common sense – just because someone you know made money or claims to have made money doesn’t mean you will make money too.
